

Spreading Oil Still Unsolved

Growing Slick Becoming Danger To California Beaches, Wildlife

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—A sluggish giant oil slick stretched out over a 200 square mile area of the Pacific Ocean today and officials still had no idea how to clean up the mess.

Dead sea birds began washing up on Ventura County beaches Friday as the growing oil slick—fed by an undersea oil well—leaking at the rate of 21,000 gallons a day—thrust the film shoreward.

Winds pushed oil toward beaches, then away again, but a thin film of oil had washed ashore along 14 miles of shoreline just south of Santa Barbara.

The thick central part of the slick, about a mile across, wallowed near the well's ocean drilling rig six miles offshore and officials said it showed no signs of moving onto the beaches.

A program was set up by the California Fish and Game Department to pick up and save oil-soaked birds along the beach. Some dead birds were reported and the department said dozens of grebes and seagulls had become so oil-soaked their lives were endangered also.

Damage to shellfish and other marine life was not yet determined, the department said. The Coast Guard said the slick covered 200 square miles but was relatively listless and directionless.

Officials said the Union Oil Co. of California, whose well developed the leak Tuesday, was still assuming full responsibility for cleaning up the slick. The Coast Guard said, however, that state and federal agencies might take over the cleanup operation if the situation does not improve.

Spraying of detergents on the slick continued Friday from a boat, but the solvent seemed to have little effect, the Coast Guard said.

Wallace Has No Plans for Another Run

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace "has no plans for the 1972 presidential election," one of his top aides said at a meeting of Wallace backers here.

Bill Jones, Wallace's former press secretary, said he was attending the Dallas meeting "to observe." Wallace was not scheduled to appear.

Delegates from 45 state organizations who supported Wallace for president last year are here to discuss methods of keeping their common interests alive in the form of a national party—with a national advisory committee foremost in their plans.

Jones said Wallace's files of donors to his 1968 campaign were not available to anyone at this time, "but these people would have top priority," he said.

Preventive Jailing Favored by Nixon In Fight on Crime

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's recommendations for fighting the rising crime in Washington put him on record as favoring preventive jailing of hard-core criminal repeaters—a concept the White House says may raise constitutional problems.

But, at the same time he suggested tough new steps against criminals, Nixon called for a full-fledged public defender program to protect the rights of poor people charged with crime.

The crime program, biggest step the new President has taken in an area that was a major campaign issue last fall, capped a day Friday during which Nixon visited an area of the capital torn by riots last spring.

The President called together his National Security Council today for the fourth time since taking office with the No. 1 subject tension in the Middle East. Nixon also scheduled a second church service in the White House Sunday, with the Rev. Dr. Richard C. Haveron, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in suburban Bethesda, Md., to preside.

The Nixons wound up the day with a white tie reception for the ambassadors and chiefs of mission from 115 countries, telling them all countries had an obligation to settle our differences peacefully.

In his crime program, Nixon proposed more policemen judges and prosecutors for the District of Columbia. He also called for a $700,000 public defender program and pledged a major effort to rebuild parts of the Negro slums burned out during the riots last April.

He also reiterated his support for home rule for the district and said he will press for a voting representative in Congress.

It was uncertain when the President would submit actual draft legislation, and White House aides said specifics of the plans have yet to be worked out. They acknowledged that the courts have not ruled on the constitutionality of preventive detention—which may run counter to the American tradition that a suspect is innocent until proven guilty.

The aides conceded that the fewer people the proposal authorizes jailing, the better the chances of its approval by civil libertarians in Congress.

The problem of crimes committed by people out on bail has been especially severe in Washington.

Pickets Go to Work As Kennedy Tribute

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP)—The president of the local longshoremen's union allowed his men to drop their picket signs to unload cargo as a tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy.

and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew in the Blue Room and Secretary of State and Mrs. William P. Rogers in the Red Room.

Nixon broke with tradition to make a short speech, interrupting the dancing to call his guests into the East Room, where he held his first formal news conference earlier this week.

"We have an obligation—each of you and all of us in the American government—to find ways to settle our differences peacefully," he told the diplomats and their wives, aglitter with bright sashes military decorations and entertained the representatives

"Your visit has brought to us buffet table and three receiving many pleasant memories," President said. "I hope this is the first of many enjoyable visits."

Playful Cheetah Killed After Attack in Florida

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—A hunter cat, described as a big kitten at heart, was shot and killed Friday by police who had no way of knowing whether she was after play or prey.

Motorcycle Policeman Robert Nieder fired the first bullet into "Che-Che," a 100-pound cheetah, when she came bounding into the street after his motorcycle. Other policemen finished off the wounded animal in a hotel garage on Miami Beach's famed Collins Avenue.

"I heard someone yell, 'Look at behind you,'" Nieder said, "and when I turned, here was this cheetah loping along behind me. I turned and he was poised and he made a move toward me, so I fired one shot."

Che-Che, owned by Thomas Posen, 35, of Chicago, had bounded out of her owner's $125,000 yacht "June Bride" and jumped on a 9-year-old boy, before she was attracted by the motorcycle.

The boy, Jeffrey Kenzer of Woodmere, N.Y., was treated for bruises on his foot and thigh. "That cat is friendly," said Capt. Larry Gregory, whose yacht "Miramar" was berthed alongside Posen's earlier in the week at Fort Lauderdale.

"It liked to play," Gregory said. "It got along with everybody. It loved kids. It was de-clawed and de-fanged. It had its eating teeth but the fangs had been taken out."

Posen was arrested for drunkenness and police had to carry him off his illegally docked yacht. He was also charged with keeping a dangerous animal and allowing a cat to run without a bell. Miami Beach is a bird sanctuary with restrictions on cats.

Finds 'No Certain Cause' of Tragedy

Navy to Push Scorpion Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy is pinning its hopes for solving the mystery of the Scorpion submarine disaster on its deep-diving bathyscope Trieste II, which will begin a new underwater search in the spring.

A court of inquiry report released in summary Friday said that despite 12,000 photographs of Atlantic floor debris, the Navy still is unable to say what happened to the nuclear sub last May.

The $40 million craft disappeared with a crew of 99 officers and men while enroute home after a Mediterranean training operation. After extensive search, her wreckage was located Oct. 29 some 10,000 feet deep and 460 miles southwest of the Azores.

After hearing 90 witnesses and piling up 1,334 pages of testimony during 11 weeks, the seven-man court of inquiry said:

"The certain cause of the loss of Scorpion cannot be ascertained from any evidence now available."

More Photographs The court recommended a further effort be made to photograph the wreckage and the Navy said the Trieste II would go out into the Atlantic about April for on-the-spot observation and additional photographs of the Scorpion hull.

The court of inquiry ruled out two possible causes of the loss of the Scorpion, worst submarine disaster since the Thresher was crushed after a piping failure off New England in 1963. The Thresher carried 129 men to their deaths.

The Scorpion did not hit a sea mount, or underwater ridge, "since there is none in the area where the submarine went to the bottom," the Navy reported.

The nuclear reactor plant also was dismissed as a possible cause of the loss.

The court also downgraded such potential causes as a collision with a foreign ship, sabotage as a crewman of faulty safety procedures.

There has been some speculation that there may have been an explosion in a torpedo tube. The Navy said the court probed this possibility even though photographs gave no indication such an explosion occurred.

The Scorpion fired torpedoes on practice missions before her springtime assignment in the Mediterranean, and the Navy cited testimony that her torpedomen "were well trained" in handling ordnance in accordance with established safety precautions.

Navy spokesmen said the Trieste II will work with the floating dry dock White Sands and the tug Apache when winter sea conditions ease.

The Trieste II, a Navy-owned submersible which carries a two-man crew and an observer is certified for operating at 12,000 feet although it was actually designed for 20,000 feet.

As a result of modifications, she will be able to retrieve objects weighing around 250 pounds but not major sections such as hull or sail components.

Equipped with powerful spotlights, the Trieste is expected to provide far better on-the-scene visual reports and clearer photographs than were taken earlier by towed underwater cameras of the submersible Mizar.

No one had filed for the post when the nomination deadline passed and Mayor James Doherty is not seeking re-election. The city attorney said the council would appoint a mayor if no one cared enough to write in a name on the spring election ballot.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the sole surviving Kennedy brother, said Friday he hoped construction of a grave for Robert Kennedy could begin this spring with some public and some private financing.

A spokesman said the senator would have no comment on the failure of the Johnson administration to include the Pentagon's budget recommendation in the budget published Jan. 1. But it was apparent Kennedy was surprised and disappointed over the omission.

A Budget Bureau source said the amount recommended by the Defense Department was taken into consideration when

U.S. Base Attacked by Red Troops

SAIGON (AP)—About 500 North Vietnamese troops attacked a U.S. base 43 miles northwest of Saigon while terrorists struck three times in the capital today, one attack wounding a key staff general of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The night assault on the infantry base cost the Americans two dead, 31 wounded and a helicopter shot down, the 1,000th last in combat in the war. The four crewmen were rescued uninjured. First reports said only three enemy soldiers were killed.

Twice the North Vietnamese tried to drive into the base under cover of a five-hour barrage of 160 mortar shells. They were beaten back by U.S. bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery.

Eleven persons, including Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Kiem and four of his bodyguards, were wounded in the three terrorist attacks in Saigon. A ground attack on a hamlet south of Da Nang and two overnight shelling, including one against the old imperial capital of Hue, killed seven Vietnamese civilians and wounded 15 others, a spokesman said.

Protest Note The South Vietnamese government made public another in a series of protest notes to the International Control Commission denouncing "acts of terrorism and sabotage directed against the people of the Republic of Vietnam."

Kiem suffered a broken leg after two men on a motorcycle hurled an American grenade at his car. Eyewitnesses said Kiem and his four bodyguards managed to jump from their vehicles before the bombs exploded. Government spokesmen said a suspect was arrested shortly after the attack, but they would not elaborate.

Kiem, 45, was the second high-ranking victim of terrorists in less than a month. Education Minister Le Minh Tri was fatally wounded Jan. 6 when a bomb exploded in his car. A government spokesman said Kiem's condition is "not very critical." He said the four bodyguards suffered minor injuries.

Officials said the bombing occurred when Kiem's car accompanied by South Vietnamese military police troops, stopped at a traffic light a block from the U.S. Agency for International Development. The general was on his way to the presidential palace.

Budget Ignores Federal Plan To Help Finance RFK's Grave

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson's final budget message five days before leaving office, listed $150 million for contingencies.

This leaves it up to the Nixon administration whether to seek from Congress specific funds for work on the Kennedy grave before the contingency authorization expires June 30.

President Nixon must request the sum in a supplemental appropriation bill, or a congressional amendment to such a bill, if Congress paying $1.77 million money is to be forthcoming for access routes and public facilities. The Kennedy family cannot claim the $309,000 cost of the with its own money until Congress area itself.

COG Advisers Hear Sewer Study Report

Findings to Date Given, Planning Outlined for Year

Members of the Technical Advisory Committee (COG) of the City of Appleton, Wis., heard a report on the sewer study. The study was conducted by the City of Appleton, Wis., and the report was presented to the COG. The study was conducted by the City of Appleton, Wis., and the report was presented to the COG.

Planners reviewed the study programs, revealed basic findings and outlined the final half year phase of the studies. They indicated all findings were tentative.

Giving the report were Arno Haering, director of regional planning, David Wendland, associate COG planner, and Wayne Eckstoe, Fox Cities resident engineer for Donohue and Associates, Sheboygan-based architectural firm handling the studies.

Growth Projection

The studies are geared to project the growth and needs of the COG members by the year 2000. Wendland outlined the generalized land use projection. Haering and Wendland reviewed the preliminary sketches of the studies, showing land use transportation routes, terrain characteristics, population growth trends and anticipated economic trends.

The $170,000 sewer and water study and $300,000 solid waste disposal study were undertaken in August after COG received two thirds federal support.

The sewer and water analysis also covers other study areas and is an updating of an earlier study. The solid waste study comes on the heels of federal and state indications that new disposal methods must be developed.

3 Charged for Aiding Runaway Teen-Age Girl

Three young men including two from New London remained in jail under $100 bonds today following their arraignment Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old runaway Appleton girl.

Charged following investigation by Appleton and New London police were Loren Thomsen, 20, Sturgeon Bay; John G. Frasier, 22, and Joseph Frasier, 18, both of 312 Waukegan St., New London.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer continued their cases to Monday to allow them time to consult an attorney. The men did not enter pleas.

Appleton police said the girl ran away from home July 17. New London police found her at a home in that city about 11:30 p.m. Jan. 18. She was taken into custody and spent the remainder of the week in the Outagamie County Jail juvenile detention quarters.

Appleton authorities contend the girl was driven to New London by the three young men.

Suspect Faces More Stolen Goods Counts

Steven Porter, 20, Arrested After Police Find Loot

Four more charges were brought Friday against Steven Porter, 20, 261 W. Commercial St., who was taken into custody late Tuesday night when police found a cache of stolen property in his apartment.

Porter, who is being held under $1,500 bond, was in court Wednesday on two counts of receiving and concealing stolen merchandise.

The two charges allege that he had 12 garage shotgun taken in a burglary early last month at the Mrs. Robert Christensen home, 1600 Hillcrest Drive, and two large amplifiers stolen Sept. 9 from a trailer near the Tony Wagner home, 618 N. Division St.

The additional charges brought Friday by the district attorney's office allege that he also received and concealed two citizens band radios, one stolen from a car owned by Robert Christensen and another stolen from a truck owned by Floyd Ruckel, both of Appleton.

Other stolen merchandise Porter is accused of having in his apartment includes a tool box and tools taken from a car owned by Jack Casper of Appleton and a rifle and a snowmobile taken from the Gillett Implement Co., Gillett.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer set a preliminary hearing for 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Charged following investigation by Appleton and New London police were Loren Thomsen, 20, Sturgeon Bay; John G. Frasier, 22, and Joseph Frasier, 18, both of 312 Waukegan St., New London.

More State Aid Requested for School Districts

Education Council Asks Money Without Prorating Funds

MADISON (AP) — Additional state aid for local school districts was requested today by the Wisconsin Council for Unified Action in Public Education. The Council asked the 1969 legislature to provide money for all school aid without prorating available funds, now about $21 million short.

Ten major educational organizations compose the Council.

It recommended additional state aid, saying the Tarr task force suggestions "do not seem to meet the full needs of Wisconsin."

The Council recommended an increase in the guaranteed minimum each year if excess and payments and the 1961 limit for integrated K-12 districts are achieved.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles Thursday called for an elimination of "excess aid" payments in the 1969-71 budget.

Organizations in the Education Council include the Wisconsin:

- Congress of Parents and Teachers, Federation of Teachers, Education Association, Department of Public Instruction, Association of School Boards, Association of School District Administrators, Association of Secondary School Principals, and Association of Schools of Business.

Consecration Set At Faith Church

The new chairman of the congregation is Max Hensel. Arnold Grummer is vice president; William Selle, secretary; Larry Kath, treasurer; and Walter Dobratz, financial secretary, and Fred Pahl, Sunday school superintendent.

Frederick Froehlich will serve as chairman of the board of elders; Norman Johnson, board of education; Clarence Hefel, board of finance and John Lenke, board of trustees.

Church Men Name Officers at Greenville

GREENVILLE — Newly elected officers of the Men's Club of the Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church are Eldred Deell, president; Howard Palmbach, vice president; Larry Huebner, secretary; and Henry Stolzman, treasurer.

Wisconsin's Health

Hortonville Joins List of Fluoridated Communities

BY E. H. JORRIS, M.D., State Health Officer

During 1968 11 Wisconsin communities, including Hortonville, and one large hospital complex began fluoridation of their water supplies. These additions bring the number of community fluoride programs in the state to 211. Thirty-six more communities obtain fluoridated water from neighboring communities, and another 49 have a free supply of naturally fluoridated water.

Based on water utility usage reports compiled by the U.S. Public Health Service in 1967, our fluoride communities were supplying the water needs of 91.4 per cent of the population served by public water facilities. (This percentage figure placed us in second place among the states, exceeded only by Maryland with a 94.5 rating.)

Wisconsin also is fortunate in having a fluoride dividend in large areas within the state where adequate levels are added to the water supply through the bounty of nature. In these areas, are many thousands of rural families who get the benefit of fluorides even though they live beyond the mains of public water facilities.

Those who joined the fluoridation program during 1968 are the communities of Verona, Niagara, Arcadia, Prentice, Butler, South Wayne, Theresa, Town Hill Park Subdivision, Genoa City, Hortonville and Manitowish, and the Mendota State Hospital-Central Colony complex.

Church Council of Our Saviour to be Installed Sunday

A dozen members of the church council of Our Saviour Lutheran Church will be installed by the Rev. Ralph Sandgren, pastor, at the 10:30 a.m. Sunday service.

They include Frank Charlesworth Jr., secretary; Robert Hoepfner, Don Koepke, Loyal Krueger, Merle Mueller, Bart Munson, president; Kenneth H. Pike, Raymond Ruzinske, treasurer; Lawrence Schiedermayer, vice president; Floyd Skeins, Jesse Smith and Owen Wilden, financial secretary.

Rudzinski, Schiedermayer, Krueger, Koepke and Pike were elected to the council at the annual meeting this month.

Savings, Loan Assets Up

$770,119 Gain Over Previous Year at Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Assets of the Kaukauna Savings and Loan at the end of 1968 amounted to $16,095,930, an increase of $770,119 over the previous year, stockholders of the institution learned at the annual meeting.

Mortgage loans granted during the past year amounted to $2,785,086, bringing total loans to $14,076,451 an increase of $1,270,925 over 1967.

Total reserves increased $114,076 to $1,483,763 at the end of the year and net earnings after taxes amounted to $780,880.95 for the year. Leo H. Schmalz, manager, reported, assets of the savings institution have increased from $7,159,244 in 1968 to $16,095,932 at the end of 1968.

S.L. Forde, industrial relation managers at Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Company, Kaukauna Division, was named to the board of directors to succeed A. E. Mayer who died recently. Re-elected to three year terms on the board were Schmalz and Harry D. Conkey. Named to the loan committee were W. C. Hess, Charles D. Ehlike and Schmalz. The latter was also named executive vice president as well as secretary-treasurer and manager. C. J. Hanson was re-elected president and Hess was named a vice president.

Bowler Man Learns Store No Place to Nap

Archie Stevens, 22, route 1, Bowler, forfeited a $29 bond in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday on a drunkenness charge brought by Appleton police.

Stevens was arrested about 7:30 p.m. Jan. 24 in a W. College Avenue business place where Stevens reportedly intended to "sleep for the night."

Stevens, who said he started drinking the morning of Jan. 24, thought he was in Menasha, police said.

Father Should be Setting an Example

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 14-year-old son is a little on the smart aloof side. He and his father are forever arguing. I am the chair and he bit his tongue, beginning to wonder who is in the next apartment began to. Last night my husband walk-knock on the wall with a broom.

Dear Heloise:

This may sound silly, but I have five banks — one real and four "piggy" — in which I save money for certain things.

For our Christmas Club I put in two dollars every week and first and to follow instructions and cautions on any container.

Dear Heloise:

I wonder if other mothers make cloth bags for their children to use. They can be made from scraps or remnants of corduroy, denim, drapery material, or any other heavy cloth.

Small drawstring bags (a folded-over rectangle sewed up on both sides) with a short shoestring for the drawstring are great for marbles.

Larger drawstring bags (20-inches square) make fine gym bags and save buying an expensive, short-lived one.

I make these bags in assorted sizes according to the need: my son uses one to carry the mutes for his trombone, and another to protect the lovely inlaid box to his chess set.

Dear Heloise:

I hope the ladies will not be offended if a mere male offers a comment on their housekeeping habits?

But... did you know that a large number of ladies are wasting time and energy performing a task which not only is unnecessary but is downright undesirable?

I refer to the unsanitary habit of taking a dish-towel and drying their dishes after washing them!

If dishes and glasses are properly washed and rinsed, they will dry naturally with a gleaming polish which cannot be accomplished with the old, unsanitary towel and elbow-grease!

This should settle the old argument which I understand disturbs some families as to who should wash and who should dry!

Dear Heloise:

By the time I finished cooking a meal, I wasn't hungry, due to the unnecessary "sampling" which I couldn't seem to resist.

So I began to chew gum while cooking the meal. Now, my mouth is too busy for food so I am ready to eat when the food is placed on the table!

Dear Heloise:

My toddler grabbed a corner of the tablecloth to steady himself (naturally, he had a good sit-down anyhow!) and spilled a pitcher of cream on the cloth. Oh, what a spot!

Since that tablecloth is a favorite of mine, I wonder if you have any suggestions as to how I can remove the stain.

Oh, Elizabeth, try this:

Soak it in warm water, then launder as usual. If spot remains, use cleaning fluid. Or take it to a do-it-yourself dry-cleaner. Great.

Or, rub detergent into the spot and let set for awhile. Then wash as usual.

Always be sure to spot test of traffic offenses.

An hour later my husband yanked the footstool from under these neighbors fed my pastries to their dogs—right in front of me.

This really burns me up but I don't know if I should say anything. What do you say?

I want to see my sister and the children, but I refuse to stay in that house unless the man moves out while I am there. Wouldn't you think she could ask her lover to stay somewhere else for a week? I suggested it and she said no.

Should I cancel my trip? I miss those kids like crazy.—Auntie Mame

Dear Mame: Go. And stay in a nearby motel. I agree with you that your sister's living arrangement is disgraceful, but you have no right to impose your standards on her.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamp, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Several evenings a week we get together at our house to discuss the events of the day, help you with your problems. We always end up having coffee and a snack in our kitchen. I'm newspaper, enclosing a stamp, a good pastry cook and I always ed, self-addressed envelope. Have a delicious cake or pie or some cookies on hand. Four Syndicate).

Oconto Falls Tips Seymour, Leads NEW

Uses Free Throws To Win, 69-60; Pytleski Hits 34

OCONTO FALLS — A rash of Seymour fouls gave Oconto Falls 44 opportunities at the free throw line, and the Panthers took advantage of them for a 69-60 Northeastern Wisconsin Conference win Friday night.

With the victory, Oconto Falls moved into sole possession of first place in the league with a 10 - 1 record. West De Pere which went into action last night tied with the Panthers, fell out of the deadlock by losing to Kewaunee.

The Indians, now 3-8 in NEW play, played Falls to a 25-25 stand-off for the first half. However, a 23-14 advantage in the third period gave the Panthers momentum for the victory.

Jeff Pytleski hurt Seymour the most by scoring 34 points and grabbing 25 rebounds. Ed King connected for 20 points to pace Seymour.

Senior Guard Makes 14 Straight Charity Shots to Pace Raiders

CHILTON — Kiel's six-foot senior guard, Mike Fitrick, made 14 straight free throws, nine of them in the final stanza, as he led the Raiders over Chilton 52-49 in an Eastern Wisconsin Conference tilt on Friday night.

The Tigers captured a 12-9 lead in the initial period and left the court a half time with a six-point margin. Kiel took its first lead, 29-28, in the third quarter, but Chilton had a three-point advantage going into the final period.

The Raiders worked up to a one point lead late in the game, but with 1:10 left forward Steve Brucker made a three-point play for the Tigers to give them the edge at 48-46.

At the 1:13 mark, Fitrick tied it up with two charity shots. With 40 seconds left, five-eleven Nick Pfeffer put Chilton back in the lead, making one of two free throws. Woody Dahmer put Kiel ahead to stay with a lay-up at the 24-second mark. Finally, Chilton brought the ball down, missed a shot, and fouled Fitrick, who sank two from the line for the final score.

Scoring Honors Fitrick took scoring honors with 24 tallies. Pfeffer paced the Tigers with 16. Both teams shot 35 per cent from the floor.

School Building Plans Examined At Wittenberg

Board of Education, Architects Study Proposed Facility

WITTENBERG — R.W. Surplice and Curtis Lemke, of R.W. Surplice Architects, Inc., Green Bay, met recently with the school board to discuss preliminary planning of a proposed high school for the combined Wittenberg-Birmamwood district. Characteristics of the site selected, access roads, and heating fuels were examined. The board also discussed the size of the proposed structure and special teaching areas to be included.

The board previously agreed to purchase an option on the Mission Site property on the west edge of the village.

The proposed facility will house from 500 to 600 students and will be from 90,000 to 100,000 square feet in size to meet state standards of 150 square feet per student.

Flexible modular scheduling has been considered. Under the system a number of 12 to 20 minute time modules are combined to form class periods. Open design is needed to institute the system.

The school board also discussed 1969-70 teachers contracts with the welfare committee of the Teacher's Association.

2 Front End Loaders Damaged by Vandals At Outagamie Airport

About $500 damage was done to two front end loaders parked at the Outagamie County Airport.

The vandalism was reported Thursday afternoon by officials of the West Shore Equipment Co., Green Bay, owner of the equipment. Dials, headlights, shift levers, and windshield wipers were damaged. Entry into the machines was gained by breaking doors, sheriff's investigators were told.

Officials of the Green Bay firm said the equipment was at the airport for a demonstration for county highway officials.

No Change; Driver Slams Ramp Gate

A young Appleton motorist who crashed his car through a parking ramp gate because he "did not have any change," pleaded guilty Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 to a charge of causing destruction with a vehicle.

Rodney K. Sternhagen, 22, 433 W. Verbrick St., will be sentenced next Friday. Judge Nick F. Schaefer set bond at $50 and continued the case to allow Sternhagen time to learn from city officials how much it is going to cost him to replace the traffic control gate on Soldiers Square Ramp. Appleton police said Sternhagen crashed through the gate, breaking it off, the evening of Jan. 23. A patrolman was on the second level of the downtown ramp when he heard the crash and saw Sternhagen's auto leave the ramp. He obtained a license number and five minutes later stopped the driver when he saw him near Lawrence and Oneida Streets.

20-Year-Old Arraigned on Drug Charges

Youth Charged With Selling, Possessing Marijuana at OSU

OSHKOSH—A 20-year-old St. Cloud, Wis., youth was arraigned Thursday in Winnebago County Court Branch 3 and charged with possessing and selling marijuana.

The youth, Daan E. Korkow, was arrested by county police in Madison.

Korkow's arraignment brought to nine the number of present or former Oshkosh State University students that have been charged this week with possessing and either selling, giving away or using marijuana.

The offense Korkow is charged with allegedly occurred Dec. 16 on the OSU campus.

All nine youths appeared in court Friday morning. Preliminary examinations for them were scheduled for Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

Bond for each youth had been earlier set at $5,000. County Judge James V. Ditter Friday reduced to $1,000 the bond requirement for Korkow. He either reduced or eliminated bond for the eight others.

Money Sought To Fight Crime

COG Asks Funds for Planning

Special to The Post-Crescent

MADISON — The Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) Friday asked for $11,081 in planning funds to participate in the federally-supported statewide program to fight crime in Wisconsin.

Eugene E. Franchetti, COG executive director, traveled to Madison to submit the application to the planning evaluation committee of the Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and Crime.

Six requests were received by the state for the funds under the federal omnibus crime control and safe streets act. It was announced earlier than $382,000 in federal funds had been made available, and the state would allocate $42,000 for the purpose.

The planning grants, for which regional agencies were urged to apply, are expected to be approved.

Statewide Program

Under the program COG would lend its assistance in formulating a statewide comprehensive law enforcement program, plus establishing a priority listing for its own member communities. Federal action funds are expected to be available in late fiscal 1969.

While spending no local money, COG would establish technical advisory committees on law enforcement and other legal personnel, and hire professional planners to come up with the long-range program and priority lists for each community.

The COG policy committee unanimously endorsed the offer earlier this month but application had to be made before Feb. 1, so COG membership approval is still pending. Policy committee noted approval should be given at the February meeting because no local funds are required.

Action Money

Robert Waller, project director for the commission, said the state wants a general list of proposed law enforcement improvements by April and its detailed long-range plan by Aug. 31. On the basis of these plans and the statewide comprehensive plan, communities can apply for action money.

Most enforcement projects will be funded 60 per cent federal and 40 per cent local. There include training, recruiting and public education, but funds are available for all areas of law enforcement. Walter indicated about $415,000 in federal funds may be freed for state and local use in fiscal 1969 for implementing programs. This money is separate from the planning grants.

He estimated that $2.5 million which he thought came from the state behind him called. "Do your thing" and at that point his "office exploded." Guiles told Bailey, Chester Krueger and Glen Polzin.

Other agencies applying today included the department of police over the floor and desk of his office, that drapes were ripped from the windows and that ink spilled on the office carpet.

Guiles was the first on a list of state's witnesses which is expected to number about 20. They will probably include Winnebago County and City of Oshkosh policemen. OSU administrators and newspaper photographers.

Political Crises Involved

New Tensions Crop Up Between Christians, Jews

AT Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Christianity, rooted in Jewish antiquity, launched by Jewish apostles, nurtured by Jewish Scripture and focused on a Jewish teacher, Jesus, has repeatedly turned against its mother religion.

Today, new tensions are showing up between the churches and Judaism.

Behind the interfaith friction is the world's age-old, presently boiling trouble spot, the Middle East, intersection of three continents, birthplace of Judaism, Christianity and Islam, meeting point of East and West.

Ostensibly, the struggle there is political, but it has powerful religious undertones, and the fears, interests and antipathies have spilled over to stiffen inter-religious relationships elsewhere.

It has happened as spreading voices among church leadership have taken exceptions to some policies of the state of Israel, and expressed concern for the Arab side of the conflict.

Study Slippage

The Rev. Dr. Alford Carleton, chief of overseas missions of the United Church of Christ and an influential figure in interdenominational affairs, says a "steady slippage" has occurred in church sympathy for Israel.

"The price we may have to pay for it has caused some second thoughts," he said in an interview, citing the dangers of a collision between Russia and the United States. "We're beginning to wonder about it. Church people are getting nervous."

The shifting sentiment in some church quarters, signs of which have appeared increasingly in articles and statements in church periodicals expounding Arab viewpoints, has evoked dismay among Jewish leaders.

It "threatens to undermine Jewish-Christian relationships and stir up anti-Semitism," says Rabbi Marc Tanenbaum, director of interreligious affairs for the American Jewish Committee.

Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, a noted Jewish scholar, accused Christian leadership of a "lack of even-handedness" and "lack of objective moral calculus" in dealing with the Middle East conflict, adding that Israel openly seeks negotiations while Arab countries refuse it, and assert their aim to destroy Israel.

Moral Grounds

However, some churchmen said assessing the conflict on strictly moral grounds has become pointless — a conclusion which Dr. Carleton said "may seem cynical" but which he insisted is realistic in face of the hardening impasse.

"Right or wrong, the Arab attitude is a fact," said the Rev. Dr. David M. Stowe, head of the overseas ministries division of the National Council of Churches. "We've got to deal with that fact, to diffuse it."

He also cited a "shift of some church sentiment" away from the once near-solid support for Israel, and on increasing circulation of material presenting Arab positions, particularly from church sources in Arab areas.

Nevertheless, this week's mass executions in Iraq of alleged Israeli spies drew strong denunciations from Christian leaders. Pope Paul VI called the hangings an "abomination."

Top U.S. church leaders urged President Nixon to press for condemnation in the United Nations.

But the spreading church reservations about Israeli policies showed up earlier in reaction to her Beirut airport raid, in retaliating for an Athens airport killing. Dr. Carleton said critics still support Israel's right to exist, but oppose its resort to spiraling retaliatory acts.

Reshuffling

A World Council of Churches commission on the Jewish people, previously made up entirely of pro-Israel churchmen, recently was reshuffled to include several representatives of Arab Christians.

Early this week, an off-the-record interfaith discussion was held here at the headquarters of the National Conference of Christians and Jews to try to find means to ease the rising tensions over the issue.

A special international meeting also has been called for March 13-14 in London about the same problem.

But despite efforts to keep lines of communication open, Dr. Carleton said that "in the present state of emotions, some damage likely will be done."

"If Jewish representatives can look at the Middle East as a political question in those terms alone, then the door can be kept open," Dr. Stowe said. "If not, then the future of the dialogue is going to be a little difficult."

To Your Good Health

TB Drug Treatment Has Proved Effective

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How does drug treatment of tuberculosis compare in time and efficiency with the old rest cure? (In the rest cure the TB patient was cautioned not to strain the arms or even move them any more than necessary.) — I.S.

There's scarcely any comparison between the two types of treatment. We used to employ the "rest cure" and dry air because nothing else was available.

All it amounted to was hoping that the patient would be strong enough and lucky enough to fight off the infection — for that is what TB is, infection.

After that came collapse therapy — that is, collapsing a lung for a time to let it rest while the body struggled to overcome the infection. This was soon followed by thoracoplasty, removal of ribs to cause lung compression. Still later resection (surgical removal) of diseased lobes was developed.

Dr. Thosteson

Some effective drug treatment was sought for generations but without success until fairly recent years, with a series of medications being developed.

Currently a patient with active tuberculosis is confined to home or hospital (the latter is better) and treatment started and continued for six weeks or 50.

The most-used combination is paraaminosalicylic acid (PAS), isoniazid, and streptomycin. The first two can be given by mouth, and the streptomycin is given by injection. This combination at last provides us with a way of attacking the TB germs actively instead of hoping that the patient, with rest, can overcome them.

After the first six weeks (approximately) the streptomycin is discontinued, but the other drugs are continued for at least a year. When tests show the disease no longer is in an infectious stage, then it is no longer necessary to keep the patient hospitalized and isolated. But due precautions should be observed — muzzling a cough or sneeze with tissue, avoiding kissing, etc.

Moderate physical activity is usually allowable after the first two months, but it should not be overdone. The patient still needs to conserve his strength to finish fighting off that infection! Extreme bed-rest is no longer needed at that stage, as it used to be. But don't push your luck.

Treatment of TB is far, far more effective than it used to be, but remember this: TB is still a dangerous disease and still with us. It still needs to be diagnosed early if best results are to be expected.

Make use of those free X-rays the TB societies sponsor. Remember, also, that TB is not a disease only of the young. A vast number of TB cases are found in older folks who "have a cough" but don't suspect tuberculosis.

The drugs have given us another great benefit. When TB is discovered in a patient, those who have been around him, his friends and relatives, have probably been thoroughly exposed to his germs. The isoniazid drugs are now being used to protect such people from developing full-blown TB, too. And finally, the same drugs are used effectively, after a patient has been treated, to prevent a relapse, or recurrence of the disease.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter gives her six-month-old baby her bath in the family bathtub and holds her head under the baby's head so the water doesn't touch her face, but I notice she doesn't hold it high enough to prevent water running into the baby's ears. Couldn't this cause ear trouble? — Mrs. C.K.

No.

Note to L.F. and others: The B vitamins cause a yellowness of the urine due chiefly to riboflavin, but this is in no way harmful.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of his helpful and comforting booklet, "Acne — The Teen-Age Problem." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Thosteson answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

Whitehead Elected Senior Warden of All Saints' Church

At the annual parish meeting of All Saints' Episcopal Church this week, Howard Whitehead was elected senior warden to succeed Bruce Purdy.

Philip Schlichting was chosen junior warden to succeed Whitehead.

Others elected were Gilbert Suthwell, Herbert Haller and Bruce Cronmiller who will serve three-year terms, and Homer Earl, one-year term as vestryman.

At a special vestry meeting following the annual meeting, Robert Wilson was chosen parish treasurer and Richard D. Sampson, re-elected clerk.

Co-chairmen for the supper preceding the meeting were Mrs. J. John Barlow and Mrs. Whitehead.

The New Chapel of St. Elizabeth Hospital is a study in quiet simplicity. Two outstanding features are the six-foot imported hand-carved lindenwood statue of the resurrected Christ and the small eucharistic shrine altar which houses the tabernacle. Seating capacity is 120. A special highlight is the series of stained glass panels representing the Word and the seven sacraments. The Rev. Peter Schroeder, chaplain of the hospital, prepares for the daily mass.

Does Latin America Want Help?

During the presidential campaign, President Nixon mentioned that the Alliance For Progress for Latin America needed some deep reviewing and that it had not succeeded in the way it was intended. But at this stage it is difficult to see what progress can be made as long as the Latin Americans drag their political feet. Venezuela, once considered by American officials to be foremost among Latin American nations on the way to the social, economic and political reforms believed essential for progress, gave a considerable vote to the party of ousted dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez last December. In fact, Perez Jimenez was elected to a seat in the Senate although he was in exile in Spain during the campaign, and his party virtually controls the City Council of Caracas, Venezuelan capital. Mr. Jimenez has a grudge against the United States because it agreed to extradite him from Florida to stand trial for crimes allegedly committed when he ran Venezuela. Usually the United States refuses such extradition when politics appears to be the main controversy. In other Latin American countries growing nationalism has taken a decided anti-American slant. The new military junta in Peru promptly seized and nationalized American oil interests and the conflict over the oil was one reason why the

Revival in Classical Music

Young people are different from the older generation in many ways, for they have grown up in a culture which is rapidly changing. One of the most evident differences is in the field of music. Although the gap between the music which most adults appreciate and that to which teen-agers dance is narrowing as popular rock evolves, one of the treasures of teens often is their music. They understand it and value it even more highly because adults generally cannot identify with the music. One of the interesting developments in music today is that young persons are learning to appreciate other music besides popular rock. It is significant that Time Magazine devoted a recent cover story to tell of the popularity of Johann Sebastian Bach, regarded by some authorities as the greatest musician in history. The magazine said this resurgence of the popularity of Bach and the baroque period which was crowned by his music is primarily among the young. Such news is encouraging. While not denying the message and value of modern music for its adherents, we feel there is a treasure of music which goes under label of "classical" and deserves to be preserved. It is a rich and meaningful heritage, full of

Project Newgate in Oregon

Despite the emphasis in the last few decades on rehabilitation, there has been little success in keeping convicted criminals from going back to crime once they are released from prison. It sometimes seems as if our prison system involves a matter of graduating from boys' schools, to reformatories to state prisons. But one program, somewhat similar to a project at the Green Bay Reformatory, has piled up an amazing success story so far. In Oregon, Project Newgate was designed to encourage prisoners to get their high school diplomas and then go on to college or some other form of post-secondary training. Ninety per cent of the 41 former prisoners who were enrolled in the program and were later released have avoided crime. The Oregon project now has

Looking Backward

Women's Rights Promoted

100 YEARS AGO Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 19, 1869. The thoughtless, as well as the brainless, may inveigh against our Wisconsin legislation, according to a Married Woman, the right to buy, sell, or hold property in her own right, and the right of the childless wife to inherit property of her childless husband; and all such who may sneer at the proposition to make women legally eligible to hold office or to invest her with the elective franchise (the right to vote).

The fact is patent to us that our laws are not yet liberal enough. We still have too much of the legal fungi of hoary old England with its aristocracies, its favored classes, its judicial blindness, its narrow and bigoted ideas, clinging to our statute books. Woman should be invested with the elective franchise simply because she is man's equal, and needs it for her protection against avarice and cupidity. She should be entitled to hold office because she is naturally fitted better than many men for some offices. If that field was open to her, she would speedily fit herself by the acquirement of the requisite attainments for almost any of our county offices. If the present Legislature has not the courage to do anything else, we hope they will secure to married women the rights to their own earn-military were successful with the coup last fall. Mr. Jimenez says that "these Latin American countries are awakening and this is essentially a nationalistic emotion . . . The United States has too many interests in Venezuela . . . and also much to lose." President Nixon has mentioned that more private American investment could help solve Latin American problems. But a lot of people in Latin America hardly seem enthusiastic about such investments and American investors are not likely to want to risk capital when the possibilities of seizure without compensation are great. Very much like the Philippines, many Latin American nations have failed to reconstruct their governments so that wealthy, conservative land owners would no longer have control. Once such oligarchies may have made for law and order but no longer. Most likely there will continue to be military coups overthrowing governments which attempt to be more representative. And this repression is always a happy break for the Communists. Perhaps President Nixon and his advisors will come up with some better ways to handle our relations with Latin America. But it appears likely that there is going to continue to be the always present threat of violent revolution.

the human emotions which music of today expresses also, although in a different way. The universal pleasure and enjoyment which classical music gives was demonstrated recently when the Oshkosh State University Collegium Chamber Players presented an abbreviated concert at Franklin Elementary School. The 200 youngsters attending learned about how instruments play, had the music explained and were able to ask questions. In the process, the six to eight-year-olds had a painless and enjoyable introduction to good music of the Bach, Beethoven and Brahms variety. The program was an experimental one presented under the Young Audiences of Wisconsin, part of a national organization supported by state art groups, various foundations and other philanthropic sources. Its musicians are specially trained in inductive teaching techniques, an indication of the care with which the program has been developed. Local officials indicate that they feel the concert bridged the cultural gap between the generations and different types of music. With such an endorsement, we trust steps will be taken to include such a program in area school system plans for the future.

21 former prisoners enrolled in college. New Mexico has recently approved a plan in which 50 inmates of the New Mexico State Penitentiary will enroll in Eastern New Mexico University, first to get high school diplomas and then to encourage them to go on. Authorities also plan extensive attention to released prisoners under the program for the first two years they are out. F. B. I. reports show that 75 per cent of those arrested for major crimes the last two years had previous records and that most of them returned to their old ways within two years of their release. Clearly improved methods of rehabilitation must be evolved and something like Project Newgate may be the answer for at least some men and women in our prisons.

Americanos Given Drum Through Stamp Project

Editor, The Post-Crescent: Recently the Parents Club of the Americanos Drum and Bugle Corps purchased a drum with Gold Bond Stamps and cigarette coupons. This would not have been possible without the cooperation of the Double "O" Supermarket and Northgate Skelly Service Station or the Look Drug Stores of Kaukauna who were so kind to let us place canisters at their places of business for people to put their stamps in for our use. We thank these merchants and all the citizens in the Fox Valley who so generously donated to this worthwhile cause as it was greatly appreciated. When we first undertook this project we doubted if we could possibly benefit much from it, but with the help from you we accomplished even more. As we continue this project, the stamps are still pouring in and soon will be able to secure more greatly needed equipment.

Hong Kong Flu on Wane in U.S. But Now It's Spreading in Europe

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — You may not agree if you still have those aches all over your body, a painful cough and a general listlessness, but the Hong Kong flu outbreak is on the wane. That's the official opinion of the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, which keeps records of deaths from influenza and pneumonia in 122 cities to help spot the trend of such epidemics. This epidemic involves a strain of Asian flu called Hong Kong flu because it was first isolated in Hong Kong. It differs from the Asian flu which made its appearance in the winter of 1967-68, it occurred later in the winter and is more extensive than the previous year's outbreak. SHORTAGE OF VACCINE The Hong Kong flu epidemic was complicated this time by a shortage of vaccine for this particular strain and, in New York, by a strike of fuel oil deliveries. In an influenza epidemic throughout the world in 1918-19, an estimated 20 million persons died, many from such complications as pneumonia, bronchitis and mastoid and sinus infections. The current epidemic was first isolated in the United States last October, in Atlanta, when a military man returned from Vietnam. The first major outbreak was reported in Colorado and by Dec. 5, outbreaks had been reported in 15 states and the District of Columbia. The peak was reached nationally during the first week of January, when widespread outbreaks were reported in 36 states. SPREADING IN EUROPE In a six-week period when the outbreak was at its highest level, 6805 persons died in the 122 cities on the NCDC checklist. The report from the 122 cities is a barometer to determine the nation's mortality rate, but the number of actual deaths is somewhat greater. The 6,805-toll is 3,754 more than normally would be expected in these cities, the NCDC reported. But, while the epidemic has reached its peak in most of the nation, the U. S. World Health Organization reports the disease spreading in the Soviet Union and in several European countries, including Iceland, The Netherlands, West Germany, Romania and the United Kingdom. The outbreaks in Europe have been described as mild. WHO said the incidence of flu has doubled in Moscow and a four-to-five-fold increase was reported in parts of Central Asia. In its weekly report for the period ending Jan. 11, the National Communicable Disease Center reported widespread influenza activity in 26 states in the nation, regional activity in 11 states, isolated outbreaks in eight states and isolated cases or no activity in five states. It said 26 states had reached their peak influenza activity between Dec. 1, 1968, and Jan. 4, 1969.

LSD Film Brings Poetic Response

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

A few minutes ago two boys in my 7th grade class handed me the poems which I am enclosing. These poems prompted me to write to you. Yesterday we took one and one-half hours of our regular schedule to show a film and hold a discussion on LSD made available to us by our local police department. The film was shown to both the 7th and 8th grade classes after which a discussion was held. The discussion continued after the 7th and 8th graders returned to their own rooms. The children asked questions and we simply answered them with facts. Many students were totally ignorant about the harmful effects of not only LSD, but marijuana, heroin and morphine as well. The question of why people take or try any of these drugs came up and, although I might have had some answers for the students, I made them try to answer this question themselves. That answer must come from our young people who have to decide for themselves whether a moment's thrill is worth the agony which ultimately follows.

No reading assignment was given — no written assignment — no instructions — yet here in my hand I hold these poems. They are, to me, significant proof of the fact that just a few moments taken to educate our young teen-ager at the junior high level to the scientific facts and the truth of the drug problem in our area and in our country could be a vital step in the right direction to help solve it. I hope other schools in this area will follow our example.

Milwaukee Attempt To Legalize Gambling Due to Fail Again

BY JOHN WYNGAARD MADISON — One of the perennial puzzles of state politics is the persistent conviction of so many persons who ought to know better that the legalization of gambling can provide a significant revenue base for worthy state services or state assistance to local governments. Time after time during the last quarter of a century or more such proposals to delete the lottery prohibition of the State Constitution have been offered with straight faces by members of the legislature, debated with all the earnestness given to sober and serious matters, and defeated with ease when the full force of public opinion came to bear. Now the Milwaukee County Board is making motions about sponsoring a controlled gambling bill in the new legislature as a potential source of additional revenues which the county needs so badly, according to its leaders, and more particularly, the City of Milwaukee. HAS LITTLE CHANCE The board has instructed its legislative committee to draft such a proposition, which shows a certain seriousness of intent, although its own professional lobbyists in Madison, if asked, would quickly and positively reply that such a proposal has no more chance of approval today than on the many other previous occasions that it was offered under less respectable sponsorship. Reasons for the resistance to state-sponsored gambling are many. Perhaps the major ones are these: 1. The fear of many persons that such an adventure would be an invitation to corruption, the invasion of hoodlums, and the disintegration of the law enforcement machinery. 2. The conviction of thousands of good citizens that gambling is inherently immoral, and that it will be a tax upon the poor and the ignorant. 3. The knowledge of most sophisticated persons that the

Opponent of Church Taxation Writes Again

Editor, The Post-Crescent: This is in reference to W H Page's letter of Jan. 18, 1969 in which he commented on my letter of Jan. 9 concerning taxation of church property. I am very pleased to learn that someone read my letter and I wish to say that his point is well taken. It is regrettable if my letter gave the impression that all readers share my opinion. That would not be factual nor was it my intention. However, over a long period of time, inquiries and observation seem to indicate that the vast majority of citizens favor tax exemption for churches. If the converse were true, it is very likely that churches would now be taxed. Mr. Page does not indicate how he stands on this question, but I would like to state two reasons why I favor tax exemption. One is religious, the other financial. Because most everyone in our country believes in some kind of Supreme Being, because as parents we seem to call on Him when difficulties present themselves and our children are sick or injured, because many soldiers say it gives them something to hold onto, because — although it is spiritual rather than material — religion to some extent must be tied in with brick and mortar of a church and because of the long tradition of history in our country I favor not taxing churches. Almost all parish churches, regardless of denomination, do much to help the poor. Usually it is in the form of food and clothing, but sometimes with furnace oil, coal and furniture. If churches were taxed, it is possible that this charitable work would fall upon our tax-supported agencies. In the area of taxation there was a very interesting article in the Jan. 19 issue of the Chicago Daily News on the Internal Revenue Dept. While the article treated specifically on Joseph W. Barr, our departing Secretary of the Treasury, it was broadly about IRS. The article in part said that if incomes were taxed a flat 14 per cent rate after allowing for doubling present personal exemption from $600 to $12000 and permitting deductions only for business and medical expenses, the revenue would equal that now raised by the present tax system. The mechanics of this escapes me but it certainly is a wonderful and beautiful thought! Paul E. Russell 369 N. Roger St. Kaukauna

Battle Over Custody Of Connie Continues

BELOIT (AP) — The foster parents of a child who is to be returned to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boles of Waunakee complained Friday that the youngster has not been given a chance to have a voice in the matter.

"She was not asked where she would like to live," Mrs. B. J. Wofford said. "I am crying for justice for this child. She is happy here, and has adjusted well in school."

A controversy over a decision by the state to transfer 9-year-old Connie from the Boles' home to the Wofford home two years ago seemed resolved Thursday when the Department of Health and Social Services decided not to fight a Dane County judge's order to have the girl returned to the Waunakee couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Boles had raised Connie and another girl from infancy. Mrs. Boles' health figured in the department's decision to move Connie to the Woffords' home.

The Boleses' efforts to regain custody of the child, and adopt her, were backed by petitions signed by hundreds of Waunakee area residents.

Mrs. Wofford, 38, said Friday she and her husband are now circulating petitions in hope of keeping Connie.

"Connie was not asked what she wanted," Mrs. Wofford said. "You would have to be a Negro to know how this child feels about going back to an all-white school. I couldn't do it."

The Boleses are the only Negro couple living in Waunakee, a Dane County farming community. The Woffords, and the youngsters involved, are also Negro.

Mrs. Wofford, past president of the Burdge Elementary School Parent-Teachers Association, said Connie has been doing well at her integrated Beloit school.

"I want the court to look at Connie when she came here, and how she is now," Mrs. Wofford said.

Sheinwold Use Skill In Spite of Good Bids

No matter how good a bidding system you have you will always find chances to overbid, and then much will depend on how well you play the cards. Almost as much will depend on how well the opponents play, since many overbid hands come home because of slips in the defense.

South opened with two clubs, an all-purpose forcing opening bid, planning to rebid in hearts.

3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
7 ♥	All Pass

This corresponds with the normal opening forcing bid of two hearts.

North's positive response of two spades was slightly doubtful in view of his shortness in spades. When North next raised hearts, South used the Blackwood Convention to make sure his partner had the missing ace, and then leaped to a grand slam in hearts. It was an overbid, but we would all sleep sounder if we were never guilty of anything worse.

West led the jack of diamonds, and South viewed the dummy with some disappointment. There were only 12 tricks in top cards, and South might have to rely on a club finesse for the 13th trick.

Informative Discards
South took the ace of diamonds and an his seven trumps, discarding a club and two diamonds from the dummy. On paper, he was sure to make the grand slam, but South wasn't playing the hand on paper.

West, a fine player, planned to discard two diamonds and four clubs, blanking the king of clubs without hesitation or agony. South would take three spades and would then lead a club not knowing whether or not to try a finesse.

The position never developed because East discarded his clubs as quickly as he could on South's trumps. Now if West blanked the king of clubs, South could count to 13 and lead out the ace to drop it. East's four clubs were the most worthless cards in the deck but he should have saved them to avoid unmasking his partner.

Daily Question
Partner opens with two clubs (artificial and forcing), and the next player passes. You have: S. J 10 8 7 H. 10 D. J 10 9 C. K 9 8 7 6. What do you say?
Answer: Bid two diamonds. Do not even dream of rising to three clubs, first because your hand is too weak for a positive response and second because your partner does not guarantee a club suit when he uses the all-purpose forcing bid of two clubs.

Get Smart Investigates Golf Course

BY TV SCOUT

7-7:30 — Channel 5 — The title of Get Smart's episode is "I Shot $6 Today" and if you think that refers to golf, you're right. Max, 99 and the Chief are all out on the links, trying to discover how KAOS has been blowing up aerospace centers located near golf courses. The Chief figures the centers are being bombed by nuclear golf balls. But how do you hit them without setting them off?

4-5:30 — Channel 11 — ABC's Wide World of Sports goes to some extremes to bring us skiing from the mountains of Austria and high diving from the Cliffs of Acapulco. The program covers the International Men's Skiing Championship from Kitzbuhel, Austria, and the U.S.-Mexican Cliff Diving Championship from Mexico.

5:30-6:30 — Channel 11 — The Andy Williams San Diego Open live coverage in the third round of the $150,000 competition with Jim McKay, Bill Flemming and Byron Nelson calling the action.

6:30-7 — Channel 5 — Adam-12 has a perfect example of the upside down world we are living in today. Malloy and Reed unexpectedly come under the attack of a sniper armed with a rifle. Reed tumbles out of the car, which has been hit, and sees the fellow lift his gun again and fire a second shot which smashes into the dashboard. He returns the fire and kills the deranged would-be killer.

6:30-7:30 — Channel 2 — The Jackie Gleason Show opened its 1967 season with a raucous musical built around the battles between city landlords and their tenants. In this, Ralph and Norton are fighting over a proposed $5-a-month rent hike. They get nowhere, so Ralph puts a deposit down on a two-family house, with Norton and Trixie moving in as his tenants. Repeat.

7:30-8 — Channel 2 — Both the generation gap and the inconstancy of values come up for inspection on My Three Sons. Steve gives Chip a well-kept, though aged car and gets a left-handed reaction. The young man thinks he deserves "better, until a hot rodder friend gets slightly ecstatic over the "wheels."

7:30-8 — Channel 5 — You've seen Captain Gregg in a rage before on The Ghost and Mrs. Muir, but tonight the barometer hits a new low. It seems that some years ago he sat for a photographer "Not for my own pleasure, but for history." A century later, a soup company discovers the portrait and decides its perfect for the label of their clam chowder.

8:30-9 — Channel 2 — Betty White comes to Petticoat Junction as a librarian in a bookmobile who sets the town's bachelors on their collective ears. None of the boys had shown much interest in reading before, but the way they're beating tracks in and out of the portable library. You'd think they had entered a speed reading contest.

8:30-9:30 — Channel 11 — There's so much going on at The Hollywood Palace the show place seems to be bursting at the seams. Don Adams hosts, and is funniest taking off on Cary Grant in vehicles like "Charge of the Light Brigade" and "Lives of the Bengal Lancers."

Unanimous Approval
He said two national conventions of the Eagles had unanimously approved the petition drive.

In Milwaukee, a letter carrying Seraphim's signature has been circulated with the petition. It reads:

"If an armed robber runs away from a store holdup with a suitcase full of stolen merchandise ... the police may stop him and ask him if he held up the store.

"The police may not ask him what he has in the suitcase.

"If they do, the trial judge cannot admit his voluntary confession in evidence.

"Why not? Because the Miranda decision ... required that, unless there is a waiver, a lawyer must be provided for the robber before he is questioned, identified or permitted to confess.

"If you agree that this is nonsense, please ask your friends to sign the enclosed petition, seeking a constitutional amendment to repeal the Miranda decision and restore the balance between the rights of criminal suspects and the rights of law abiding citizens."

Atty. Paul L. Moskowitz, president of the Milwaukee Bar Association, said the bar's executive committee, its criminal law section, ethics committee and constitutional law committee were investigating the letter.

Seraphim had been considered a likely candidate for the Wisconsin Supreme Court in April, but he declined to run and said in a Jan. 9 speech that removal of restrictions on law enforcement is "a much bigger undertaking than winning an election or seeking promotion to a high judicial office."

The judge said Friday he has a list of judges from throughout the country who support the Eagles' petitions.

Sunday Afternoon at 4 p.m., a group of Lawrence faculty members and two violinists from Appleton will present a recital of chamber music of the late Paul Hindemuth in Harper Hall of the Music-Drama Center. Discussing their music at rehearsal were, from the left, Caroline

Faulkner Can be Filmed With McQueen as Star

Author's Work Rarely Successful in Movie Form, Actor to Try 'The Reivers'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The new Steve McQueen movie is dedicated to the proposition that a work of William Faulkner can be successfully converted to film.

History is against this thesis, since a Faulkner vehicle has rarely been successful on the screen. The efforts have been: "The Story of Temple Drake," 1933 (from "Sanctuary"), "Turnabout We Live," 1933 (from "Turnabout"), "Intruder in the Dust," 1949; "The Long Hot Summer," 1957; "The Tarnished Angels," 1957 (from "Pyrolon"); "The Sound and the Fury," 1959; and "Sanctuary," 1960.

The new effort is "The Reivers," the late Mississippiian's last novel, which won him a Pulitzer Prize in 1963. It is a picturesque tale involving an 11-year-old Southern boy who runs away with a young adventurer and a Negro and learns about life.

Rydel Directing

Directing the $5-million film for CBS' Cinema Center Films is young (39) Mark Rydell, one-time jazz pianist and actor and now one of the hottest new directors in films. The reason for his success: "The Fox," his first feature after escaping from the grind of directing "Ben Casey," "Gunsmoke" and other TV series.

"We made 'The Fox' for a little over a $15 million," he reported. "No, I didn't have a percentage of the profits; I worked for a straight salary. But I'm not upset by that. 'The Fox' gave me a career."

Marvelous to Read

Rydel had recently returned from location filming in the Faulkner country near Carrollton, Miss., where he grew a beard out of boredom. "The people there were waiting for us to be Northern ogres, and we were expecting them to be Southern bigots," he said. "Both sides bent over backward to be nice. As a result, it was pretty dull."

In Good Taste

Rydel was asked why the Faulkner magic, which drew him a Nobel Prize and other honors, has largely escaped capture on the screen.

"Maybe because his writing is so textual," the director mused. "His words are brilliant and rich; they look marvelous on the page."

"But films are not primarily a verbal medium. There have been a few that have made superb use of language—'A Man for All Seasons,' 'The Lion in Winter,' 'Becket.' But most good films are visual."

Rydel remarked that "The Reivers" seemed to be a good Faulkner work for film adaptation because of its wealth of humor and action. But the rambling novel had to be made more visual and simple by script writers Harriet Frank Jr. and her husband, Irving Ravetch, who also functions as producer. They also adapted "The Long Hot Summer" and "The Sound and the Fury."

Director Rydell startled the film world with his love scenes between Sandy Dennis and Anne Heywood in "The Fox." Will "The Reivers" also treat sex so openly?

"I think the picture should be acceptable for general audiences," he remarked. "There is some rough language and the boy does get an education when Steve takes him to a whorehouse. But there is no nudity and no outright sex. It's all done in good taste."

Ghosts Score 66-56 Victory Over Bulldogs

Pull Away in Second Half of M-E Cage Game

NEW LONDON — Kaukauna's Ghosts scored a 66-56 basketball victory over New London Friday night.

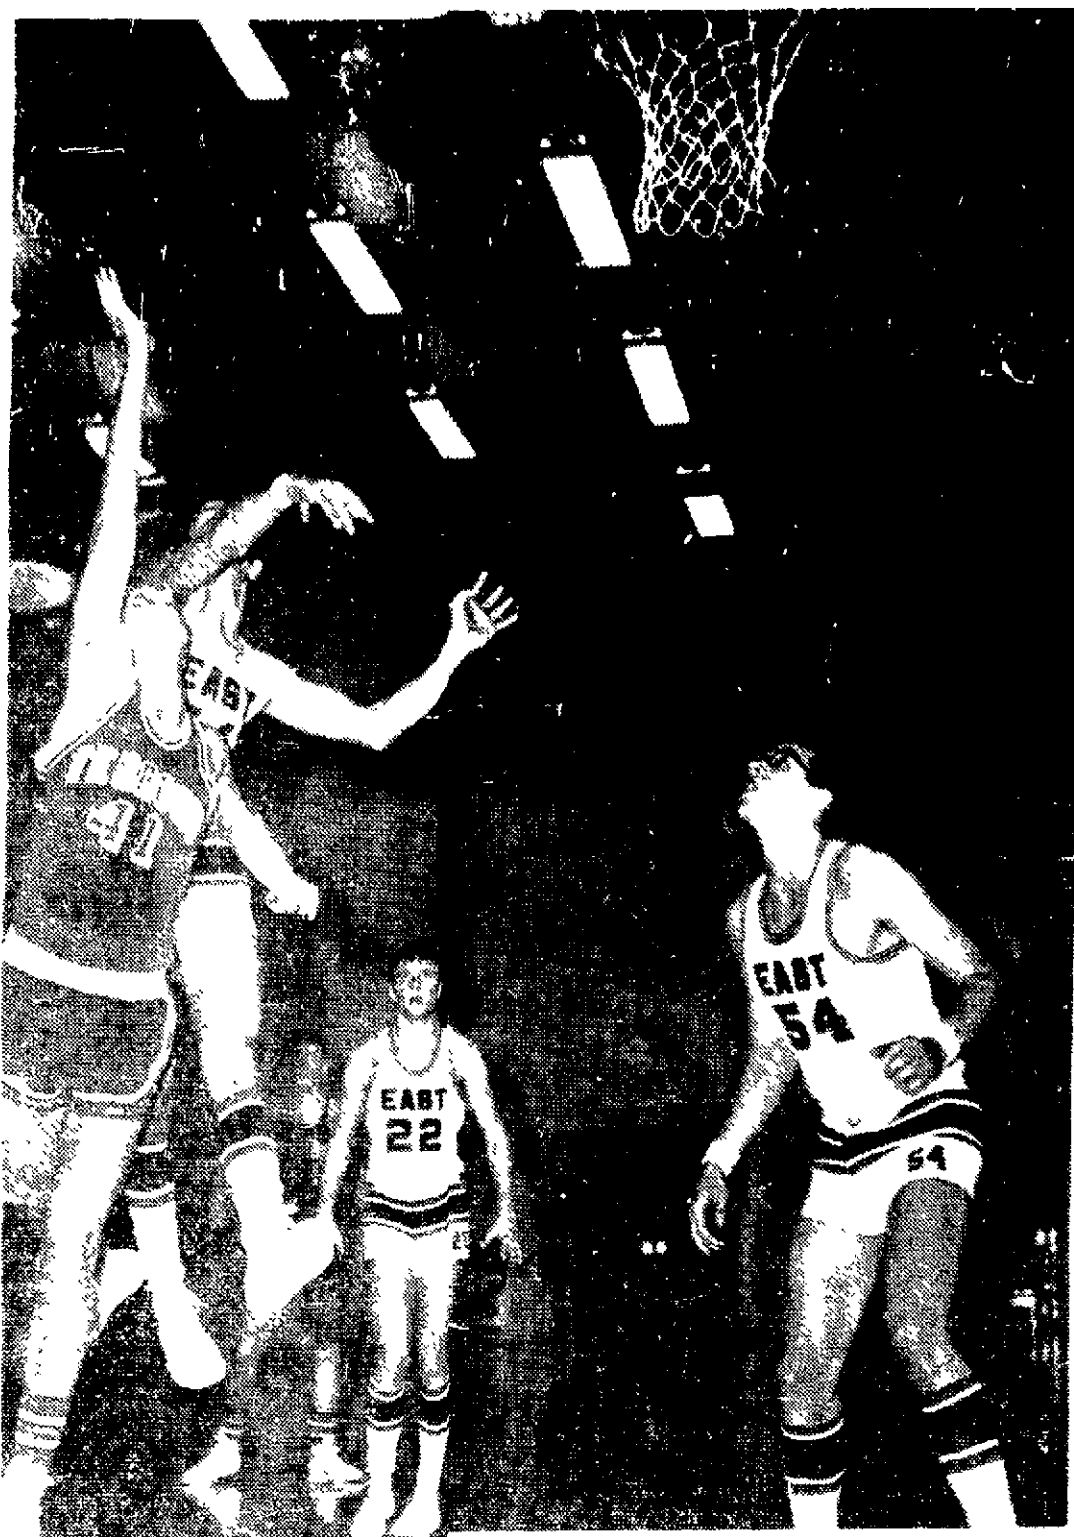

Ken Vander Velder's Ghosts posted their fourth Mid-Eastern conference win against five losses after holding a narrow 30-27 lead at the intermission. The winners got into the bonus situation as the Bulldogs committed their fifth foul of the second half with 5:25 remaining in the third stanza. During this stretch, Kaukauna had a 7-3 edge in scoring for the period.

Jim Klat netted medium range jumpers to bring New London back from a 37-34 deficit, however, Kaukauna retaliated with eight points before the Bulldogs could score again. Kaukauna moved in front by 17 points on several occasions in the final period before New London rallied to close the margin.

A torrid shooting exhibition enabled the Ghosts to post the victory as both teams dropped in 16 gift shots. Vander Velder's charges tallied on 14 of 25 attempts in the first half, for 56 per cent, and followed with an 11-of-23 encore after the intermission.

New London struggled to make 12 of 34 in the first half for 36 per cent and fired only 18 shots in the second half as the offense lagged.

Rocket Cage Team Trims Southwest

GREEN BAY — Neenah roared to a 10-0 lead in the first two minutes of play and was never really in danger the rest of the way in powering to an important 85-67 victory over Green Bay Southwest Friday night.

By winning, the Rockets retained a share of Fox Valley Conference leadership with Green Bay East. East paced past Preble, 72-48, to match Neenah's record of 10 wins and two losses.

In an upset at Manitowoc, the defending state champion Shipbuilders dropped Green Bay West out of a share of the top spot by staging a 55-53 upset.

Neenah started as if it might blow the Trojans (2-10) out of the gymnasium, but Southwest fought back several times to make a ballgame of it.

The Rockets' Tom Koepke scored on a driving layup off the opening tip. Pat Hawley also connected on a drive-in and moments later hit two free throws to make it 6-0.

23 For Kopitzke

Tom Kopitzke, who paced Rocket scorers with 23 points, then got loose underneath, and Koepke finished the early spurt with another short goal.

Southwest finally got on the board two minutes, 56 seconds into the game on Bob Ecke's pair of gift shots, but then the Rockets fired in six more points in succession. The rest of the quarter favored the Trojans, as Neenah wound up with a 21-11 margin at the buzzer.

The Rockets gradually hiked their lead to 35-18 midway in the second period before the home club forged a comeback. Southwest whittled the lead down to 11, at 39-28, but Neenah walked off with a 47-33 bulge at the half.

Neenah received its only scare of the contest early in the third quarter, when the Trojans outscored the Rockets, 7-1, in the early going. That burst cut the deficit to 48-40.

But with Kopitzke leading the way, Neenah steadily increased the lead back up to more comfortable proportions. It was 65-48 at the third-quarter mark.

Neenah's biggest lead of the night was 21 points, enjoyed on three occasions at 71-50, 79-58, and 81-60.

Four Neenah players hit double figures. Backing Kopitzke's point-making were Hawley with 17 markers, John Arpin with 16, and Koepke with 13. Mike Koppa collected 16 for the Trojans.

Two Rivers '5' Stops Shawano

TWO RIVERS—Shawano led most of the first half, but a third quarter rally put Two Rivers ahead for good, as it went on to win a Mid-Eastern Conference game, 75-70, Friday night.

Shawano's Jeff Waukau and Mark Born collected 23 and 20 points, respectively. Barry Den-Boll 0 0 1; Levezow 2 3 4; nis paced Two Rivers with 18 points. Steve Sonntag added 17.

Hawks Crush Roncalli, 88-48, To Clinch Share of Eighth Consecutive FVCC Crown

MANITOWOC — For an almost unbelievable eighth consecutive year, Xavier's basketball Hawks have laid claim to a Fox Valley Catholic Conference title. The Hawks earned at least a share of the crown by crushing Manitowoc Roncalli, 88-48, Friday night on the Jets' home floor.

For Gene (Torchy) Clark's cagers the win gave them a 17-0 season's mark with a 13-0 FVCC record. Roncalli is in second place with a 9-3 conference log.

Mike Clark, senior guard, netted the Hawks' first seven points of the game as the state's fourth-rated power rolled to a 20-8 margin after the initial period. Clark tallied nine points in the quarter, while Brad Graff added eight.

Tom Dodge scored the first Roncalli point on a free throw with 5:12 left in the frame. He also collected their first basket with 4:20 left to move the Jets.

Graff followed with 18 points as he canned eight of 17 floor shots and two charity tosses. Bob Fullerton added 16 and Tom Thomson 13.

Dodge led the losers, with 15 markers. The Jets finished the night with a frigid 23 per cent shooting clip as they collected 19 field goals in 67 shots. They were 10 for 13 from the line.

Xavier hit on 36 of 64 floor attempts, for a 55 per cent mark, and missed only four gift shots in 20 tries.

Pete Thyne Fires In 36 Points During FVCC Tilt

MENASHA — Marinette Catholic Central lost four players on fouls here Friday night but unfortunately for Menasha St. Mary, one of them wasn't Pete Thyne and the Cavaliers left the court with a 76-59 Fox Valley Catholic Conference triumph.

The Zephyrs, who were playing their first conference game in their own gym in more than 10 years, trailed only 33-28 at halftime but were outgunned, 24-16, in the third segment and 19-15 in the fourth.

Oshkosh '5' Stops South In 84-70 Upset

OSHKOSH — The Oshkosh Indians dumped in five straight field goals at the start of the final quarter to come up with their second Fox Valley Conference victory as they upset Sheboygan South, 84-70 Friday night.

The score was tied, 17-all, going into the second stanza, but the Redmen pulled ahead to gain a 42-38 half-time lead. Oshkosh took over the lead five minutes into the third period, ending that quarter with a 60-57 advantage.

The Indians pulled away early in the fourth stanza on the strength of a 10-point scoring spree. They then held their own to come up with the 84-70 win.

Three players were within one point of each other at the top of the scoring column. The Indians' senior guard Jim Strasser, led with 27 tallies, followed by guard Pete Fischer who put in 26 for South. Tom Last contributed 25 for Oshkosh from his center position.

The Indians out-rebounded the Redmen 43-31.

Papermaker Quint Routs Clintonville

BY TOM VANDER PAS Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KIMBERLY — Still smarting from their recent demotion to third place among the state high school basketball powers, Kimberly's Papermakers toyed with Clintonville for one period here Friday night, then put the skids to the upset-minded Trunkers, 76-38, on the strength of a 65-point bombardment in the final three stanzas to record their 14th straight win of the season.

Billed as a title game showdown in the Mid-Eastern Conference, there was some difficulty in getting the show on the road, as the overflow crowd oozed onto the floor, forcing the doors to be locked prior to the opening tipoff.

Breaks Ice

That done, the two teams were lighter than the proverbial drum, before Clintonville broke the ice with a 3-point play by Rod True. Don Hagany followed with a field goal to get Kimberly off the starting block, and moments later, Jeff Wildenberg's free throw knotted the score at three all.

Following a barrage of turnovers and some easy muffs on both fronts, Pat Ziegler meshed a charity toss for the visitors and the count was again deadlocked, at 10-10, with 12 left in the frame.

Wildenberg's singleton with 20-4 showing boosted the Papermakers into a 1-point lead at the end of the first period. During that span, the Trunkers bagged four of 16 field goal tries and Kimberly four of 20.

Then the rout began. Hagany coined five quick markers, upping the Kimberly margin to 16-10, before Bob Rew hit a goal for Clintonville.

Wildenberg followed with a pair of buckets, Bill Lamers netted a free throw and Hagany draped a fielder, running the hosts' advantage to 23-12 with 3:50 to halftime.

Storm Back

John Torborg, the loop's leading scorer with a 21.1 per game average, then tallied his lone two points of the evening for the Trunkers, but the Papermakers stormed back with eight markers, while limiting the visitors to three, in forging out a 31-17 intermission bulge.

The writing was already on the wall, but Kimberly offered no letup in the third segment, canning 12 of 22 field goal attempts in mounting a 55-28 advantage.

The writing was already on the wall, but Kimberly offered no letup in the third segment, canning 12 of 22 field goal attempts in mounting a 55-28 advantage.

Hagany, Wildenberg and Lamers coined three shots each in the uprising, while True remained true for Clintonville in recording eight of his team's 11 points in the stanza.

Despite ushering in the reserves, Coach Jack Wippich's crew went about the task of "enlightening" the state's sports writers with a 21-point charge in the closing period.

In staying unbeaten and posting their 14th win of the season, the Papermakers' five starters all scored in double figures. Hagany and Wildenberg set the pace with 19 and 18 tallies, respectively, followed by Lamers with 14. Rob Ristau and Wayne Swokowski were next with 10 a piece.

Another Frenzied Battle

Patriots Nip Terrors by 3

BY RON WITT Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton East's Patriots used some torrid shooting at the free throw line along with four crucial points by forward Scott Wenzlau in the final 41 seconds to outlast Appleton West, 63-60, in another frenzied battle between the two rivals Friday night.

East's victory, achieved in its own jam-packed gymnasium, was the second over the Terrors this season. The Patriots, who can now claim a 3-2 edge in the basketball series between the two schools, had eked out a 43-42 triumph previously.

It was a typical East-West tug-of-war: close all the way with the verdict left undecided until the final moments. The biggest advantage either team could forge was five points. "The game was tied on no fewer than 15 occasions.

The most important scoring play of the ballgame came with 41 seconds remaining and East clinging to a precarious 59-58 lead. West had rallied from a 59-54 deficit with two quick baskets and was in a full-court pressing defense.

Breaks Loose

Wenzlau, who scored eight of his 16 points in the last quarter, broke loose underneath the East basket, took a hurried pass from teammate Tom Jones, and then banked in the close shot. He was fouled in the process and promptly sank the gift toss to make it 62-58.

West was far from finished, however, and Mark Catlin's clutch jumper from the side cut the deficit back to 62-60, with 27 seconds showing.

While Terror fans screamed for their favorites to steak the ball, Patriot backers howled their approval as 12 seconds ticked away before Wenzlau again drew a foul.

The 6-3 senior with the long sideburns calmly swished the first toss of a 1-and-1 set-up to give the Patriots their final 3-point margin of victory. West still had time to get a shot off, but Tim Moriarty's 15-footer from the side bounced off the rim with two seconds left.

East won the tilt at the free throw line as West chalked 22-19 edge in field goals. Bill Mrose's dead-eyes sank 25 out of 33 attempts on foul shots compared to the Terrors' mark of 16-for-21.

Fouls committed by the Terrors hurt West's chances, but a particular foul committed by East may have done more harm.

Reitzner Hurt

West lost the service of sophomore guard Rick Reitzner with 44 seconds to go in the third quarter. Reitzner, who had already hit six buckets and was on a hot streak drove the lane in an attempt at the seventh.

The Pats' Tom Jones leaped to try to block the shot and both players tumbled to the hardwood. Reitzner suffered a second Wood 6 0 3; Hamauer, D. 11 2 were bump to the back of the head and had to have smelling salts to be revived.

Vikings Rally

Lawrence Upsets Coe, 69-67, on Townsend's Goal

BY JIM HARP Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Lawrence University basketball team battled back in the closing minutes and pulled a 69-67 Midwest Conference upset over highly-regarded Coe College at Alexander Gymnasium Friday night.

Forward Bob Townsend was the hero for the Vikings as he hit six straight shots from the floor in the last 10 minutes of play, including the bucket that tied the score, at 67-67 with 1:41 remaining and eventual winning shot went through the net with 1:25 showing on the clock.

Coe came into the game with a lofty 5-2 MC record, but the Kohawks had their hands full right from the start. The contest was tied on 16 different occasions and the lead changed hands 17 times.

For the Vikes, it was the fourth conference victory against seven losses and tonight Lawrence will try to improve on that mark when Beloit College invades Alexander Gym. A preliminary game between Beloit and Lawrence freshmen will precede the 7:30 p.m. varsity contest.

Stockbridge Quint Beats Ozaukee by 16

STOCKBRIDGE — Stockbridge dropped in 52 per cent of its shots from the floor to down Ozaukee, (78-63) in a Kettle Moraine Conference game here Friday night. Dan Hamauer led the charge for the Indians with 11 field goals and 2 free throws for a total of 23 tallies.

Both teams were fairly close in the rebound department, but Stockbridge's hot shooting proved to be too much for the Ozaukee Warriors as the game was never really close.

Dick Kraemer led the loser's effort and all scorers in the game with 27 points.

Manitowoc '5' Knocks GBW Out of Co-Lead

MANITOWOC — The Manitowoc Ships held off a furious Green Bay West rally in the final minute and upset the Wildcats, 55-53, Friday night. The setback shoved GBW out of the Fox River Valley Conference co-lead.

Manitowoc held a 55-47 advantage with about a minute to play, when the Wildcats parlayed two steals and a rebound into six straight points.

Another steal gave West a chance for the tying bucket, but Manty committed a foul. Chuck Ebert missed for the Wildcats, and the game ended as West missed two tip-in attempts.

Jays Roar to 79-59 Win Over Madison

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Superior balanced scoring by Menasha High School more than offset a 1-man effort by Madison East's Bob Storck, giving the Bluejays a surprising 79-59 victory over their Big Eight Conference opponent here Friday night.

The Bluejays, in turning in their finest effort of the season, did many things well. They made 34 of 66 attempts from the floor, committed only nine turnovers (just two in the second half) and after taking a commanding lead in the first quarter, stubbornly refused to relinquish it and never were in real trouble.

Aside from the 6-4 Storck, the Purgolders displayed little punch. Most of their offense consisted of getting the ball to the big pivotman for a layup, and he responded by making 13 baskets and four free throws for 30 points. He missed a number of other shots from close in and also was charged with seven of his team's eight free throw failures.

Schliem Tops MHS

The Bluejay scoring column showed four boys with 10 points or more. Brad Schliem led the way with 17, followed by Ron Haack's 14, 13 by Bill Zeininger and Bill Van Bommel 10.

The reserves, including Van Bommel, accounted for 28 of the Bluejays' points.

NM Blood Quota Upped By 28 Pints

Goal Will be 376 During 1st Red Cross Visit, Feb. 11-12

NEENAH-MENASHA — The quota for all 1969 Red Cross bloodmobile visits has been increased by 28 pints for each visit, according to Mrs. Karl Forslund, chairman, who announced the first visit is set for Feb. 11-12.

The blood bank at the Congregational United Church of Christ on Nicolet Boulevard has a total quota of 376 pints for the two-day visit. The increase is based on Neenah-Menasha area population.

"Out of your heart to the hearts of relatives and neighbors" will be the theme for the pre-Valentine blood bank. The last two visits of the blood mobile have fallen short of the previous goal.

Shortages of blood have become critical and it has been necessary to call donors to the hospital when blood was needed.

Mrs. Forslund said persons called for donations in emergency situations will not be able to give this time unless at least eight weeks have passed since they last gave blood. All types of blood are needed.

Hours for this visit will be from 2 to 8 p.m. on Feb. 11 and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Feb. 12.

Families living in the Twin City area receive free blood because of the donations to the bloodmobile. The hospital charges for processing and transfusion costs but a charge for the blood could add from $25 to $35 a pint to the cost.

Fair Housing Joint Effort of City, County

MENASHA — An open housing ordinance should be taken up jointly by city and county officials, the chairman of the common council's health and welfare committee said Wednesday night.

Ald. Andrew (Bud) DeLeeuw said he plans to seek a joint meeting of his committee and county supervisors in the near future. His committee had met twice publicly with local citizens seeking a local ordinance, but the subject has dropped from view in recent months.

Members of the citizens' committee and some public officials have maintained contact in the interim, however, DeLeeuw said he had proposed the city-county approach recently with the Rev. federal authorities in a local David Kiefer of St. Mary's Catholic Church, a leader in the citizen group.

The citizens have argued that they would prefer to have a local official or agency handle the open housing cases if they should arise in the future, rather than involving state or federal authorities in a local matter.

Neenah Police Officers Richard Schultz and Sgt. Rupert Lehman visited schools in the city Thursday to hand out booklets outlining "laws for youth" to Horace Mann Junior High School students, Barbara Brezinski, Jamie Kittel and Robert Atchinson. ## Kentucky Fried Chicken

New Restaurant Planned for Town

MENASHA—Construction is expected to start within two months on a carry-out Kentucky fried chicken outlet Foster Avenue (State 47) and Chain Drive in the Town of Menasha.

The Winnebago County zoning board this week gave its approval to a request for setback requirement variances to allow the Milwaukee development firm to build the outlet and a 75-car parking lot.

Robert Burns, handling the project for B & B Development predicted the first phase of the project would be open for business by July 1. As soon as the site can be cleared, Burns explained, construction will start on a Marc's Big Boy Restaurant on the one-acre site.

The designers have met with high school administrators plus department heads to determine the individual needs and space requirements of each department.

The academic area will be in the center of the school along with the resource centers and instructional materials center. The design, which provides open-air classrooms, will permit flexibility for the school's curriculum.

Located at the western edge of the Valley Fair Shopping Center, the $200,000 development will start as soon as property is purchased. Burns explained that the company had signed offers to purchase pending the approval by the county committee.

The developers are planning the parking lot.

Architects to Outline Plans

NEENAH — The board of education will take another look at plans for its proposed $45 million high school when it meets Tuesday evening with architects Shaver and Co., Salina, Kan.

Architects revealed the first design to the board in early January and said they would return with larger sketches and a more detailed plan in February.

The board is expected to accept recommendations of its buildings and grounds committee to offer contracts to the low bidders of the two-story Roosevelt project.

The bids, opened Thursday, Inc., Neenah.

explained that the company had signed offers to purchase pending the approval by the county committee.

The developers are planning the parking lot.

with the resource centers and instructional materials center. The design, which provides open-air classrooms, will permit flexibility for the school's curriculum.

The Roosevelt project is expected to be completed by Aug. 15, an addition to Taft will not be finished until late December or early January.

The committee has already viewed the plans of the one-story Taft addition with architects Boeflicher and Ginnow, Inc., Neenah.

Aftermath of Hearings

Senate Bill Would Ban Sale of DDT in State

MADISON (AP)—A bill to ban the sale and use of the controversial pesticide DDT was introduced Friday in the Wisconsin Senate.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Martin J. Schreiber, D-Milwaukee, comes in the wake of hearings on the subject held by the Department of Natural Resources.

The department recently recessed its hearings on a proposal to ban the use of DDT in Wisconsin.

Strong Evidence
"There is unqualified evidence," charged Schreiber, "of the uncontrollable and destructive nature of DDT."

Schreiber predicted, in a statement, that the manufacturers of DDT will "wage an intense, well-financed campaign to prevent any restricting on the use of this pesticide."

The consumer, he claims, will not be affected as there are other chemicals which "only cost a few cents a pound more."

Bonding Increase
A constitutional amendment allowing local units of government to increase bonding from 5 to 10 per cent of the taxable property valuation was introduced in the Assembly.

If the measure, sponsored by Assemblyman Gervase Henner, D-Chilton, and Edward Stack, D-Superior, passes during this term, it must be voted on again next session before it may be submitted to the voters.

Also introduced were bills which would:
Change the penalty for disorderly conduct from $100 or 30 days to 6 months or $500 or both.

Right to Bail
Allow a defendant the right to bail on an appeal to the Wisconsin Supreme Court or for appeal of Wisconsin law to the U.S. Supreme Court.

School Referendum May Delay Building

NEENAH — If a petition being circulated to put the question of a new $4.5 million high school to a referendum vote is successful it could delay the opening of the new facility by one full school year.

Dr. Donald Scott, school superintendent, said, "If we lose 30 or 60 days in our timetable it could throw us into a second school year."

The new facility is scheduled for opening for the 1971-72 school year and school officials have estimated that overcrowding at the present high school makes it extremely important that it open on schedule.

Petitions, however, are being circulated throughout the district calling for referendum vote on how far the electorate wants to go in providing school facilities.

A group calling themselves "interested persons" are circulating the petitions. Although no one has been identified with the move for the referendum, Town of Menasha chairman Roland Kampe repeatedly argued for putting the question to the people.

On Jan. 15 fiscal control body gave its approval to go ahead with preparing the bond issue that would be used to finance the new high school.

From that time the petitioners have 30 days in which to file their call for the referendum vote. If they do file, it would be put on the April 1 ballot.

If successful and the vote is put to the people there are two possible outcomes. If they vote in favor of a new school there should be no change in the present timetable. But if they vote it down, a long delay could result while school officials find another alternative.

Historically, referendums have been defeated in Wisconsin, especially when they ask public opinion on capital improvements.

The high school, planned for the site where Conant Junior High School now stands would include a 42,000 square foot field house; a 1,000 student capacity high school, and 700-seat auditorium.

Kampe in arguing and voting against the Neenah West High School said, "When you have an expenditure of $4.5 million I think the people should have something to say about it, rather than just listening to a treatment of head cuts he few pressure groups saying we need a new high school."

Proponents of the new school have contended that a delay will have cost the district more money in construction. They say the present facilities are overcrowded and more are needed a referendum is not going to eliminate the need.

Delay Delinquency Ruling on Blacks

Judge Sets June for Decision On Young OSU Demonstrators

OSHKOSH — A Winnebago County Juvenile Court Judge Friday delayed final decisions until June 2 whether the seven Negroes, all juveniles, involved in the Nov. 21 demonstration at Oshkosh State University (OSU) would be declared delinquents.

Judge James G. Sarres emphasized following a hearing here that testimony was sufficient for him to rule the blacks delinquent.

Also, he told the court that the youths still could be declared delinquent if they get into trouble before June 2. Judge Sarres noted that the "job of this court is to redirect, re-educate and rehabilitate the youngster . . . and juvenile court statutes state that the interest of the child is paramount."

Among 100 Arrested

The juveniles, five girls and two boys, were among 100 persons arrested after a demonstration that resulted in damage to contents of an executive and other offices in Dempsey Hall. All involved in the incident were charged with unlawful assembly and disorderly conduct.

Dist. Atty. Thomas Fink requested Judge Sarres to reconsider his decision and find the students delinquent. However, the judge indicated it would not make any difference to the community if he found them delinquent now.

The delay in the rulings drew praise from the attorneys representing the juveniles at the hearing. Andrew Reneau, of Milwaukee, said that Sarres' decision was "a demonstration

No Change; Driver Slams Ramp Gate

A young Appleton motorist who crashed his car through a parking ramp gate because he "did not have any change," pleaded guilty Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 to a charge of causing destruction with a vehicle.

Rodney K. Sternhagen, 22, 433 W. Verbrick St., will be sentenced next Friday. Judge Nick F. Schaefer set bond at $50 and continued the case to allow Sternhagen time to learn from city officials how much it is going to cost him to replace the traffic control gate on Soldiers Square Ramp.

Appleton police said Sternhagen crashed through the gate, breaking it off, the evening of Jan. 23. A patrolman was on the second level of the downtown ramp when he heard the crash and saw Sternhagen's auto leave the ramp. He obtained a license number and five minutes later stopped the driver when he saw him near Lawrence and Oneida Streets.

Alliance of Cities Stumbles But Votes for Incorporation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Fox Cities were among those represented Friday when the lumbering Alliance of Cities got off to its official but wobbly start in the face of internal dissension over what path to follow and who is to chart the course.

Valley cities included Appleton, Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Manitowoc, Oshkosh, Neenah and Menasha.

Meeting in Madison almost exactly two years after they first convened, the group tentatively voted to incorporate and hire an executive director, after almost three hours of procedural wrangling and disagreements.

Expected to be tapped for the leadership post when the group meets again here on Feb. 26 to reaffirm its stand is retiring Madison Mayor Otto Festge.

Festge is widely rumored to be taking the $16,000 a year post, after giving up the mayor's office in the face of stiff opposition and after sizable property tax hikes.

Split Vote

The vote to incorporate — a tentative agreement, many mayors stressed, saying that they would have to consult with their city councils — came on a 13-4 division.

The battle over the future of the alliance, founded by Festge and Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier two years ago to push urban legislative proposals, came between back's of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities and of the Alliance.

The league represents cities and villages in the state, and all of the 21 cities tentatively listed for alliance membership are part of the league.

Backers of the League argued that there was no need to incorporate and to ask city councils for appropriations for alliance dues to pay a staff, because the league already maintains a state capital office and a lobbyist.

Could Not Act

Those pushing incorporation and separate organization argued that the league was useful for the larger state cities on many issues, but that it could not act to aid urban residents on some issues that pit large cities against smaller municipalities.

The battle went poorly for the backers of the alliance until Maier stepped in. Contending that the last league convention held in Green Bay, was a "star chamber proceeding," he agreed that the league can be helpful on some issues.

But small municipalities aligned themselves against large city needs at that session, he argued.

If a city manager or mayor cannot understand the need for the alliance, Maier maintained, "That person does not deserve a position of leadership in his city."

"There is a reason for incorporation because we will be taking unique stands on unique issues," said the Milwaukee mayor.

Tax problems caused by state distribution systems do not affect the OSU campus.

All nine youths appeared in court Friday morning. Preliminary examinations for them were scheduled for Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

Youth Charged With Selling, Possessing Marijuana at OSU

OSHKOSH—A 20-year-old St. Cloud, Wis., youth was arraigned Thursday in Winnebago County Court Branch 3 and charged with possessing and selling marijuana.

The youth, Daun E. Korkow, was arrested by county police in Madison.

Korkow's arraignment brought to nine the number of present or former Oshkosh State University students that have been charged this week with possessing and either selling, giving away or using marijuana.

The offense Korkow is charged with allegedly occurred Dec. 18 on the OSU campus.

All nine youths appeared in court Friday morning. Preliminary examinations for them were scheduled for Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Regents of the state university system Friday revised guidelines for students disciplinary procedures and authorized the payment of a claim for $27,000 filed by the City of Oshkosh to cover police cost which stemmed from a student disruption on the Oshkosh State University campus last November.

E. L. Winbert, Madison lawyer and former State Supreme Court justice who has been retained as special counsel by the state universities, offered amendments to the student discipline machinery on the none university campuses, including:

Provision for student representation on the standing tribunals on each campus that will be created to hear disputed charges of misconduct against students;

Assurance of student representation on campus appeal tribunals to hear appeals from the findings and decisions of the hearing tribunal, if the university president decides to use his option to set up such an appeal tribunal, and
